

Guidance to construction sites operating during COVID-19

As the challenges caused by the coronavirus outbreak continue to shift, the B.C. government and B.C.'s provincial health officer, Dr. Bonnie Henry, are taking unprecedented measures to slow the transmission of COVID-19.

Recently, Dr. Henry issued an order under the BC's Public Health Act prohibiting the gathering of people in excess of 50 people at a place of which you are the owner, occupier or operator, or for which you are otherwise responsible. We understand that employers in the construction industry are asking for clarity about what this means for them.

While this order does not apply to construction sites as a whole, we are directing employers to take all necessary precautions to minimize the risks of COVID-19 transmission and illness to you and your employees. This includes:

- There should be no more than 50 people in the same space in any circumstances.
- Where possible employees should maintain a distance of 2 metres apart from each other.
- Post signage that limits the number of occupants in any elevator to four people at a time.
- Reduce in-person meetings and other gatherings and hold site meetings in open spaces or outside.
- Increase the number of handwashing stations and post signage that identifies their location.
- Maintain a list of employees that are currently working on sites and update this list daily.
- All common areas and surfaces should be cleaned at the end of each day. Examples include washrooms, shared offices, common tables, desks, light switches, and door handles.
- Anyone with COVID-19 like symptoms such as sore throat, fever, sneezing, or coughing must self-isolate at home for 14 days.

Section 4.85 of the Occupational Health and Safety Regulation does provide for a minimum standard around the provision of washrooms and hand washing facilities. Where plumbed facilities are impracticable, employers must provide access to portable washroom and hand-washing facilities, those facilities must be maintained in good working order, and must be provided with the supplies necessary for their use.

Employers should reassess their work environment every day and keep updated with the information posted on the Province's website: <https://www2.gov.bc.ca/gov/content/safety/emergency-preparedness-response-recovery/covid-19-provincial-support>

The B.C. government is doing everything we can to help contain the spread of COVID-19 and the safety of British Columbians remains our top priority.